Re-enactors representing two branches of the English Army join a re-enactor dressed in American paratrooper garb to flank a German machine-gun position Saturday during the annual World War II Weekend at Jefferson Barracks County Park. The event, sponsored by the U.S. 2nd Ranger Battalion of St. Louis, featured more than 250 re-enactors who portrayed American, British, Canadian, Russian, Italian, French and German soldiers in authentic living-history camps and battle re-enactments.
